

Henry Danniels Minor, Jr. Co G-2

Danny, the Southern Gentleman, brought a leisurely way of life with him from Georgia and managed to maintain it throughout his four years, in spite of the efforts of the Tactical and Academic Departments. Prevented from stardom on the gridiron by a back injury, Danny starred with the girls and classmates. Who will ever forget that slowww drawl?

Dan served on active duty in the Army (Artillery) for 4 years, resigning in 1965, with the rank of Captain. His first assignment was with the 3rd Air Defense (Hawk Missile) Battalion, 69th Artillery Group in Germany.

After leaving active duty in the Army, Dan had a successful career in business with Dupont, Georgia Sportswear and Smith Barney where he was as a Portfolio Manager working with many types of investments - commodity, insurance, stock and funds. Dan passed away on 11 August 11, 2023 from Parkinson's / Multiple System Atrophy (MSA).

Footnote from Dan – “I found my West Point education trained me to do almost anything from engineering to manufacturing to personnel management....People know the Graduate is well educated, well trained, disciplined, and responsible. I owe a great deal to West Point for opening doors, for ethics, and for establishing a quality of life that is “Second to None.”
